PREFACE

This is our seventh annual compilation of county tax statistics for Tennessee County Governments. Since our last report counties in Tennessee have been faced with reduced property tax bases brought about by reduced assessments of public utilities granted by the State Board of Equalization and reduced railroad property assessments resulting from passage of the Railroad Revitalization and Regulatory Reform Act of 1976, which was ruled effective in the 1979 tax year by a U. S. District Court. In addition to these adverse decisions, counties have had to cope with ever increasing costs of operation. Through the use of local sales tax increases and wheel tax increases counties have tried to retain essential services while not compromising quality or efficiency. Federal revenue sharing, reassessment programs and state shared taxes appropriated through the General Assembly have also provided needed revenues to provide these services. Last year, we offered information on an additional tax which several counties have used to generate revenues, the hotel/motel tax. Several more counties levied this tax during the 1980 Session of the General Assembly. This information is again presented in the hope that it will prove beneficial.

Since our last report two additional counties enacted a motor vehicle tax or "wheel tax" to provide additional revenues. With the addition of these two, there are now twenty-eight counties which levy such a tax, which can now be enacted without approval by the Tennessee General Assembly.

Through recent referendums, four counties have increased their local option sales tax to the maximum rate of 2.25 percent bringing the total to seventeen. Two other counties have also increased their rates since our last report, one of them being Morgan County which has never had local sales tax. With the addition of Morgan County, only one county (Anderson) does not have a county-wide local sales tax.

It is our hope that this report will be beneficial to county officials in analyzing the trends in local county revenue sources and assist them in comparing their performance with other counties statewide. If CTAS can provide other information relating to this report, please call on us at any time.

TENNESSEE COUNTY PROPERTY TAX RATES

(1980 TAX YEAR)

Property in Tennessee counties in 1980 was taxed based on its classification. Residential and farm property was assessed at 25% of its appraisal value; industrial and commercial property was assessed at 40% while public utilities were assessed at 55%. Because of federal legislation enacting the Railroad Revitalization and Regulatory Reform Act of 1976 (Four-R-Act) railroad properties in Tennessee were assessed at between 30-40% instead of 55% for the 1980 tax year. This decision of the U. S. District Court for the Middle District of Tennessee, resulted in estimated assessment losses for counties in Tennessee of approximately $72 million in tax year 1979. As a result of this assessment loss many counties have had to either increase their respective tax rates or cut services or both in many instances. In fact, only five counties were able to decrease their effective tax rates from their 1979 levels this year. Coffee, Hamilton and Jefferson Counties decreased their respective rates through the use of property reappraisal programs while Bedford and McMinn Counties were able to lower their rates through the use of unallocated reserves and added assessments respectively.

In 1980, counties in Tennessee established a total of 131 taxing districts. County tax rates in 1980 range from a low of $.95 per $100 of assessed value in Coffee County (Inside Tullahoma) to a high of $7.91 in Anderson County. The average tax rate for the 131 reporting taxing districts is $3.65 per $100 assessed value. This figure compares with the 1979 average rate of $3.50. While this may indicate counties are levying slightly more property taxes, the reason for this slight increase in average tax rate can be explained in that many counties have undergone property reappraisal programs recently; thereby reducing the property tax in those counties by as much as one-half to two-thirds of their respective former rate.

A more realistic comparison of property tax rates can be made through the use of effective tax rates. This rate is determined by multiplying the taxing district's tax rate by the appropriate appraisal ratio as approved by the State Board of Equalization. The most recent appraisal study results in the figures shown in Table II-A which shows the tax districts' effective tax rates for 1980 and 1979. This table shows the effective rate to range from a low of $.95 in Coffee County (Inside Tullahoma) to a high of $4.84 in Polk County. The average effective tax for 1980 was $2.34. This compares to an average of $2.26 for the 1979 tax year. Thus the average effective rate increased only 3.5% from 1979.

On the following pages you will find several tables which summarize the property tax rates which have been set by counties in 1979. Table I shows the total county tax rates with a breakdown into the various county funds and the special school district tax rates. Table II gives a listing of 1980 tax rates for the 131 reporting tax districts in Tennessee, showing present rate, prior year's rate, amount and percentage of increase or decrease. Table II-A gives a listing of 1980 effective tax rates, with the appraisal ratios and prior year's rate. Any county undergoing a reappraisal program since this report was last published was assumed to have a ratio of 100% appraisal to market value.

It is our sincere hope that the reader finds these tables informative and useful. For any additional information regarding this matter, please contact the CTAS field representative in your area.

*Appraisal Ratio - Average level of appraisal for assessed property as approved by State Board of Equalization. Appraisal ratios, except for those counties which underwent reappraisal programs in 1980, are taken from the "1979 Tax Aggregate Report of Tennessee" published by the State Board of Equalization, April 1980.

COUNTY-WIDE MOTOR VEHICLE TAX
LEVIED IN COUNTIES OF TENNESSEE

Counties in Tennessee may deem it necessary to levy a privilege tax on motor vehicles as a supplemental source of revenue. Such a tax is generally called a "wheel tax." With the exception of Metropolitan Nashville-Davidson County, the most common method used until recently by counties for the levy of motor vehicle tax (wheel tax) has been by passage in the Tennessee General Assembly of a private act with subsequent ratification by local authorities through either (1) referendum of the people or (2) a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the county governing body or both. However, in the second session of the 89th General Assembly the state legislature enacted a law which allows an alternative method for counties to enact a wheel tax. Chapter 618, Public Acts of 1976, subsequently codified as T.C.A. 5-802, and now renumbered 5-8-102, allows a county to pass a resolution calling for a public referendum on enacting a wheel tax. The resolution does not have to be presented to the state legislature for its approval, thereby allowing the county to pass this resolution at any time of the year and submit it to the public for approval or disapproval. Subsequent to passage of Chapter 618, an Attorney General's opinion has interpreted the intent of the act to require a public referendum on any wheel tax proposal, whether or not it was passed as private legislation or by court resolution. This ruling effectively does away with the two-thirds vote of the county court as a means of ratifying a wheel tax proposal. To date, Jackson, Marshall, Obion, and Weakley counties are the only counties to enact a wheel tax by this method. Fayette and Sumner counties have increased their existing wheel tax by this method.

Twenty-six of the ninety-five counties of Tennessee presently levy a privilege tax on all motor-driven vehicles within the county which use the road system of the county exclusive of state or federal road systems. These counties have levied this tax through either Private Acts of the Tennessee Legislature or by court resolution and public referendum. In addition, Davidson County has enacted a regulatory fee on its motorists by passage of an ordinance through the Metropolitan Council. The amount of tax or regulatory fee levied by these twenty-seven (27) counties ranges from $5.00 in Lake County to $50.00 in Cheatham while the effective dates vary from 1947 (Robertson County) to 1980 (Jackson County).

Since the tax is levied on resident motorists within the county for the privilege of using the county roads, one might anticipate that revenues realized from this tax would be allocated to the county road fund for the building, repairing, and general operation of the county road department. While this might seem to be a desirable expenditure, few counties, through the medium of private act legislation, have elected to allocate this additional county revenue to their road departments. In fact, only thirteen (13) counties (Carroll, Cheatham, Crockett, Dickson, Fayette, Gibson, Lauderdale, Lincoln, Marshall, Obion, Robertson, Sumner, and Weakley, specifically allocate all or part of the proceeds to the county highway fund. Carroll, Dickson, Gibson, Obion, Sumner and Weakley Counties earmark all the proceeds to their respective highway funds; Lincoln County allocates one-half (1/2) of the proceeds to its road fund, while Lauderdale, Marshall, and Robertson Counties allocate approximately 1/3 to 1/2 of the revenue realized from this tax to their road departments.

The remaining counties take the proceeds from this privilege tax and allocate it for various uses such as debt retirement, education, and ambulance services. Williamson County allocates its revenue to the county general fund with the provision that the county commission may, at its discretion, allocate any part or all of the anticipated revenue from this tax to the county highway department.

Table III lists the counties in Tennessee which have levied a privilege tax on motor-driven vehicles, the amount levied, the authority provided and a brief explanation of how the proceeds from this tax are spent. Additionally, Table IV shows the motor vehicle registration by county as reported by the Tennessee Department of Revenue. By using these figures, a county can obtain a rough estimate of revenues which would be realized by passage of a county-wide motor vehicle privilege tax.

The figures in Table IV represent all classifications of motor vehicles registered in Tennessee. To estimate how much revenue could be realized in your county with passage of such a tax, simply multiply the number of vehicle registrations by the desired privilege tax. Conversely, to determine what amount of tax would be required to bring in X amount of dollars, simply divide the dollar amount by the vehicle registration in your county.

It should be emphasized that CTAS is not advocating passage of such a tax in each county; however, we do feel that each county should be made aware of this method of raising needed revenues that other counties have utilized. In this regard we will be happy to assist any county desiring further information on this subject.

LOCAL SALES TAX IN TENNESSEE COUNTIES

Any county by resolution of its county commission and public referendum can levy a county-wide local sales tax at a rate of up to one-half of the rate of the state sales tax which presently is set at 4.5 per cent. This would mean a county-wide local sales tax of up to 2.25 per cent of most sales. This local tax covers the same items as the state tax with the exception of electric power, natural or artificial gas and coal and fuel oil. There exists a maximum tax of $7.50 per single article of personal property provided a rate of 1.50 per cent to 2.25 per cent is in effect within the county. This limitation is reduced to $5.00 on single items if the local tax is set at less than 1.50 per cent.

The proceeds from the county-wide local sales tax are distributed as follows: one-half is distributed in the same manner as the county property tax for schools, including division with any city or special school district on an average daily attendance (ADA) basis; the other one-half is distributed on the basis of where the sale occurred. Collections in incorporated municipalities go to their general funds. Collections in unincorporated areas go to the county general fund. However, a county and city may enter into a contract providing for some other distribution of the half not allocated to schools. For further information on how a county may benefit from this sales tax, please refer to the pamphlet "The Local Sales Tax Handbook for Local Officials" available from the County Technical Assistance Service or contact the CTAS field representative in your area for details.

As of October, 1980, only one (1) county had not levied a county-wide local sales tax. Anderson County does not have any local sales tax other than that where selected municipalities have levied a local sales tax.

Of the remaining ninety-four (94) counties which do have a county-wide local sales tax seventeen (17) counties levy the maximum of 2.25 per cent, ten (10) counties levy a tax of 2 per cent, seven (7) counties levy a tax of 1.75 per cent, fifty-one (51) counties levy a tax of 1.50 per cent, and nine (9) counties levy a tax of 1.00 per cent. Since last year at this time, four counties have increased their rates to the maximum of 2.25 per cent (Blount, Davidson, McNairy and Putnam) while Morgan county, which has never had a local sales tax, levied a local rate of 2.00 per cent.

Table V includes a list of county-wide sales tax for all counties and percentage rates within these counties.

HOTEL/MOTEL TAX IN TENNESSEE COUNTIES

The county property tax, wheel tax and local option sales tax have historically been the only local tax base available for counties. However, with increasing demands for services by county citizens coupled with the ever rising costs of these services caused by inflation, counties have been forced to look elsewhere for alternative revenue sources. One alternative which several counties have pursued has been the hotel/motel tax, a percentage tax much like the sales tax, levied on transient lodgings (less than 30 continuous days) at motels, hotels, inns, tourist camps, campgrounds and cabins.

Twelve counties in Tennessee have levied a hotel/motel tax by passage of private or public legislation. Shelby County has the oldest tax, levied in 1969 while two counties, (Cocke and Madison), levied the tax in the 1980 session of the General Assembly. In addition, the 1980 session of the General Assembly authorized Lebanon and Johnson City to levy hotel/motel taxes.

The tax varies in amount from 3% to 5% of the price of lodgings with six counties levying 3%, five levying 5% and one levying a range of 3% to 5% with the amount to be set by the county commission. Table VI lists the counties in Tennessee which have levied a hotel/motel tax, the amounts, authorization, distribution of proceeds and fines assessed for late payment of the tax. While this tax may not be very lucrative in most counties it can generate sizable revenues in others. Latest audit figures show Van Buren County collected over $16,065 in fiscal year 1978-79. This represents the equivalent of a $.25 property tax rate for Van Buren County. On the other end of the spectrum, Shelby County collected over $2,090,172 during fiscal year 1978-79 or an equivalent of $.08 1/2 on the Shelby County property tax rate.
